Evelyn Baltodano Sheehan Speaks at Cambridge International Symposium on Economic Crime

August 27, 2026

Kobre & Kim's Evelyn Baltodano Sheehan recently participated in the 43rd International Symposium on Economic Crime at the University of Cambridge. The symposium brings together legislators, policymakers, law enforcement officials, regulators, judges, practitioners, and academics from around the world, with this year's program focused on asset recovery.

Evelyn spoke in multiple workshops, drawing on her experience in cross-border asset recovery matters. She discussed how governments can responsibly engage with the private sector to help recover stolen assets and shared perspectives on the importance of due process protections in asset forfeiture proceedings.
