Israel-Based Former Federal Prosecutor Robert Henoch Discusses New IRS Reporting Requirements for U.S. Citizens Living in Israel

January 6, 2017

Robert W. Henoch, a former U.S. federal prosecutor based in Israel, together with Washington DC-based lawyer William J. Rosenzweig, provide practical solutions for U.S. taxpayers in Israel to navigate new IRS reporting requirements in a recent Law360 article. The authors detail foreign account holders' options in choosing whether and how to comply, negotiating penalties, lodging objections, and strategies to lawfully avoid the law's strictures.

The article, titled "For US Citizens In Israel, Time To Face Up To FATCA ," can be read here.
