

Insights

Jason Masimore, Robin Rathmell and Brad Samuels on Strategizing Against a Surprise Seizure by the U.S. Government

August 16, 2017

Publication: Wealth Management

A government asset seizure is a nightmare scenario for anyone, and the U.S. government has the authority to seize property without notice. Former U.S. Department of Justice prosecutor Jason Masimore, along with Washington DC-based lawyers Robin Rathmell and Brad Samuels, offer asset recovery advice in Wealth Management. The lawyers detail strategies for responding to each asset forfeiture framework and tips for building a defensive strategy.

The article can be read in Wealth Management's 2017 Midyear Outlook.