

John Han Discusses APAC Non-Performing Loans in Global NPL Conference Virtual Panel

September 30, 2021

Moody's estimates that non-performing loans (NPLs) across 14 APAC economies will double by 2022, including in China and India. What opportunities does this present to investors? Kobre & Kim's John Han, who focuses on distressed debt in Asia Pacific, will discuss during a virtual panel at the 3rd Global NPL Conference at 10:30 am Berlin time / 9:30 am London time / 4:30 pm Hong Kong time, October 5, 2021.

During the panel, "Focus on the APAC Region," Mr. Han and the panelists will touch on issues such as the extent to which Chinese banks have transferred NPLs to national and local asset management companies, the investment opportunities in the Chinese primary and secondary markets, and the real state of NPLs and bank recovery in China. The panel will also examine the NPL landscape across the region, from India and Thailand to Japan and Australia.

The panel will be moderated by Benjamin Fanger of ShoreVest, and Mr. Han will be joined by Roy Hahn of Marbridge Capital, Anuj Kumar of Pepper Financial Services, Boris Batin of IDF Eurasia, and Soo Cheon Lee of SC Lowry.
