Michael Ng and Robert Henoch Explore Litigation Funding as a Solution for Israeli Tech Companies

April 21, 2016

IP litigation lawyer Michael Ng, based in the firm's San Francisco office, and Israel-based lawyer Robert Henoch discuss litigation funding as a potential business solution for Israeli tech companies involved in intellectual property disputes in the latest edition of Legal Business magazine. In the article, titled "Litigation Funding: Leveling the Playing Field," the authors explore why these particular companies are especially vulnerable when disputes arise and how litigation funding can help vindicate their legal rights.
