

Insights

Vasu Muthyala Discusses the Corruption Risk for Multinational Companies in India

May 1, 2016

Publication: Today's General Counsel

Asia-based government enforcement defense lawyer Vasu Muthyala, a former U.S. federal prosecutor, explores the risk of regulatory investigations for companies operating in India in Today's General Counsel. In the article, titled "The Corruption Risk for Multinationals Operating in India," Mr. Muthyala discusses how the increasingly regulated environment in India creates more pitfalls than before for multinational companies that are operating in the country. In addition, he provides insight on how to both mitigate the chances of a government investigations and respond to allegations of wrongdoing.

Read the article here.