

Insights

William McGovern Discusses Potential Legal Risks Chinese Companies Face When Doing Business in the U.S.

February 17, 2015

Publication: South China Morning Post

In this article, Hong Kong-based lawyer William McGovern explores the legal risks many Chinese companies face when endeavoring to grow their business in the U.S.

Chinese companies building factories, opening distribution channels, and employing workers in the U.S. create value for investors but also expose themselves to potential litigation in U.S. courts.

To read the full article click here.