Kobre & Kim Lawyers Recognized as Market Leaders in Investigations

January 3, 2017

Publication: Global Investigations Review

Former federal prosecutors Roger Burlingame, Robert Henoch, Michael Kim, Steven Kobre, and William McGovern have been recognized as leading practitioners in the area of investigations by the publishers of Global Investigations Review. The awardees, part of the firm's government enforcement defense and investigations & monitorships groups, all focus on conducting cross-border internal investigations, particularly in sensitive situations and matters in which conflicts exist.

The rankings, which are based on client and peer nominations and the publisher's independent research, recognize "pre-eminent" practitioners in the field. Read more about the rankings here.
