Publication: IAM

Kobre & Kim's Michael Ng, Daniel Zaheer and George Stamatopoulos have been named to the IAM Strategy 300: The World's Leading IP Strategists 2026, which identifies practitioners "who are taking IP portfolio management to the next level" and "leading the way in developing and implementing strategies that maximize the value of IP portfolios."

The recognition highlights Kobre & Kim's work at the intersection of intellectual property, litigation and business strategy. The firm represents innovators, investors and IP owners in cross-border and multi-forum disputes involving patent enforcement, trade secret misappropriation, IP monetization, litigation finance, cross-border enforcement and disputes involving emerging technologies.

Michael, Daniel and George advise clients on strategies to protect, enforce and unlock the value of IP portfolios, including in industries such as artificial intelligence, wireless technologies, semiconductors, renewable fuels, biotechnology, consumer products and biologics.
