Kobre & Kim has earned recognition in The Legal 500's 2023 UK Solicitors rankings for our work defending individuals accused of white-collar crime and for reputation management.

For "Fraud: White-Collar Crime \(Advice to Individuals\)", The Legal 500 highlights the firm's "successful record in defending clients against asset forfeiture claims, accusations of misappropriation of funds, and broad reputational damage, including standout involvement in responses to the Pandora Papers leak." The publication also spotlights Polly Wilkins for her focus on mitigating business and reputational risks and Jason Masimore for his work in financial crime investigations in Europe and the Middle East.

The firm also ranked in the "Reputation Management" category for the first time, pointing to our representation of "numerous UHNW individuals facing complex reputational issues, including defamatory publications and public investigations." The Legal 500 highlights Ms. Wilkins here as well, praising her "considerable experience working with private family offices and their trusted advisers to formulate holistic strategies to preserve reputation and mitigate privacy risks."
