Amanda Tuminelli Joins Chainalysis Link NYC 2022 Conversation on Identifying and Seizing Virtual Assets

May 9, 2022

The rise in popularity of digital assets like cryptocurrency is inevitably paired with a concurrent rise in fraud and theft. How should victims and other stakeholders approach tracking down and recovering stolen assets when they take a virtual form? Kobre & Kim's Amanda Tuminelli, who represents clients in the digital currency industry in cross-border asset recovery campaigns, shares her insights during a Chainalysis Link NYC 2022 session at 4:15 pm New York time, May 18, 2022.

During the session, "A Conversation: Identifying and Seizing Virtual Assets," Ms. Tuminelli sits down with Gurvais Grigg of Chainalysis and Aidan Larkin of Asset Reality to discuss how asset recovery principles can be applied to novel blockchain and virtual technologies. The session will be livestreamed here.
