Calvin Koo Explores Future of Web 3.0 Technology at Hong Kong Conference

March 28, 2024

The development and proliferation of decentralized blockchain technology has created excitement over a new iteration of the web called Web 3.0. But what should industry participants be aware of as their ambitions run into global legal and regulatory realities? Kobre & Kim's Calvin Koo, who focuses on cross-border financial technology disputes, discusses during the Hong Kong Web 3.0 Spring Summit on a panel at 1:10 pm local time, April 5, 2024.

The panel is entitled "Building a Health Web 3.0 Ecosystem: Professional Perspectives on the Present and Future," and the conference is hosted by Meta Era.
