Evelyn Sheehan on "Pursuing Suspect Wealth in Cyber Space" at the Cambridge International Symposium on Economic Crime

August 29, 2024

On September 3, Kobre & Kim's Evelyn Sheehan will be speaking at the 41st Cambridge International Symposium on Economic Crime. Her talk, scheduled during a session focused on "pursuing suspect wealth in cyber space," will address the crucial issue of cryptocurrency regulation in the United States.

As digital assets have become more mainstream globally, the need for clear, balanced, and informed cryptocurrency regulation has become increasingly pressing. Cryptocurrency's borderless nature highlights the need for international discussion in the mission to achieve informed regulation that fosters innovation while effectively safeguarding markets and actors within the industry.

Ms. Sheehan, who focuses on cross-border investigations and enforcement actions involving allegations of fraud, securities registration violations, and other forms of alleged misconduct, will share her expertise on these issues in cyber space.
