September 5, 2023

Corporations are facing a rising number of customer data breaches and other criminal cyberattacks and cyber-intrusions, often attracting the attention of law enforcement. How should companies respond to a potential investigation? Kobre & Kim's Michael Sherwin, former Acting U.S. Attorney for the District of Columbia focused on national security matters, explains at the APEX Asset Protection Executive Xchange in Nashville, Tennessee, during a keynote address on September 15, 2023.

During the keynote, "Understanding Organizational Risks, Both Global & Domestic," Mr. Sherwin will explore how corporations should respond to law enforcement in the event of cyber-intrusion, giving an overview of how cyber-intrusion investigations and U.S. Federal Bureau of Investigation criminal referrals operate. Joining Mr. Sherwin will be John Franchi, former Central Intelligence Agency agent and international affairs expert.
