Wade Weems Discusses U.S. Department of Justice's Broadening National Security Policy Against Russia and China in Guidepost Webinar

March 15, 2022

Kobre & Kim's Wade Weems – a Shanghai-based former U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ) prosecutor focused on national security issues – is joining a Guidepost Solutions webinar at 1:00 pm New York time, March 17, 2022. He examines the changes and offers solutions to companies as they face rising risks when the DOJ – though winding down its China Initiative – pivots toward a broader national security policy, dubbed the Strategy for Countering Nation-State Threats, aimed at not only China but also Russia.

The webinar, "From The China Initiative to Nation-State Threats: The U.S. Government's New Enforcement Priority – China + Russia," gives an overview of U.S. enforcement under the China Initiative; examines the transition to the new strategy and what it means to companies doing business in China and Russia; and shares how companies can prepare for the shift in U.S. enforcement strategy and to minimize their risks.

Joining Mr. Weems are panel moderator Christopher Kim of Guidepost Solutions; T. James Min II of LimNexus LLP; and Stephanie Douglas of Guidepost Solutions.
