Kobre & Kim Becomes One of the First Firms Composed of Both English Barristers and Solicitors and U.S.-Qualified Lawyers

September 1, 2010

Publication: Legalweek

Kobre & Kim became the first firm composed of English barristers and solicitors and U.S.-qualified lawyers to be licensed in the United Kingdom as a legal disciplinary practice (LDP) under the new rules governing the legal profession that came into effect March 2009. Kobre & Kim is one of only a handful of international litigation firms that offers a conflict-free platform for litigation and advocacy through an integrated team able to litigate in both the U.S. and English law jurisdictions.
