Publication: Valor International

As Brazil's economy becomes increasingly globalized, commercial disputes, investigations, insolvency proceedings and investments are more frequently spanning multiple jurisdictions. In a recent Valor International article examining the expansion of international law firms in Brazil, Kobre & Kim's São Paulo office was highlighted as part of this growing trend.

Managing Director Renata Ramalhosa noted that the globalization of Brazil's economy is driving international disputes and increasing demand for coordinated cross-border legal strategies, adding that Kobre & Kim regularly mobilizes teams and local counsel across multiple jurisdictions to help clients navigate complex matters worldwide.

The article also highlights the international experience of São Paulo-based lawyers Ana Frischtak and Sergio Aguiar, whose backgrounds across the United States, United Kingdom and Brazil reflect the increasingly global nature of clients' disputes, investigations and restructuring matters.
