Kobre & Kim to Partner with Bloomberg Philanthropies in Assisting Cities Navigate Federal COVID-19 Aid

March 27, 2020

Kobre & Kim is proud to announce its partnership with Bloomberg Philanthropies in a program designed to help U.S. cities better access, navigate and track federal programs available to support their COVID-19 response and recovery.

The program aims to teach established best practices and procedures for applying for and receiving aid, as well as help monitor expenses and accounting. This is achieved by providing a technical assistance program with writing guidance, easy-to-use tools, and coaching from experts, including a COVID-19 Municipal Resource Guide that outlines all relevant federal programs. A consortium of experts will also gather to host a series of virtual sessions to familiarize city officials with the Guide and answer any questions they may have.

Through this partnership with Bloomberg Philanthropies, Kobre & Kim hopes to ensure cities are better prepared to slow the spread of coronavirus in their communities.
