Caroline Rivera focuses her practice on representing individual and institutional clients in white-collar defense and complex commercial litigation. She has experience defending clients in criminal investigations and charges brought by the U.S. Department of Justice, including allegations of securities fraud and alleged violations of the Foreign Agents Registration Act, Foreign Corrupt Practices Act and Sherman Act. Ms. Rivera also has experience handling matters before the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission and the New York Attorney General.

Before joining Kobre & Kim, Ms. Rivera practiced at Latham & Watkins, where she successfully defended a poultry industry executive facing a criminal price fixing conspiracy charge at trial, and along with her team earned top honors by The American Lawyer as Litigator of the Week.
